WEDNESDAY
Good morning, everyone! It's time for a College GO! question. Which of these are college degrees you can get after high school: Apprenticeship? Bachelor's? Associate? Certificate? Doctorate? Trick question! Every one of these is a type of college degree. Your challenge today is to learn which type of degree you'll need for your dream career.

THURSDAY
Hello! I've got another College GO! question for you today. Which of these colleges is not in Indiana? University of Southern Indiana University? Valparaiso University? Purdue University? Ball State University? University of Kentucky? If you were paying attention, you know it's the last one: University of Kentucky isn't in Indiana, it's in Illinois. Oops, I mean, Kentucky! Regardless of which college you'll go to, the most important thing is that your college degree will help you get the career you want.

FRIDAY
It's Friday! That means it's the last day of College GO! You've learned about all kinds of colleges and college degrees. Maybe all this college information seems like ice cream flavors: they all look great and you don't know which one to choose! Or maybe you've got a favorite and you're not changing your mind. Either way, the only way you'll reach your college goal is by succeeding in school now. Stay focused, and ask for help when you need it. You can do it!
